

【ABSTRACT】

An automatic level controlling apparatus for supporting an appliance includes a hollow leg body, a piston inserted in the hollow leg body, a spring seated on an upper portion of the piston, a cap disposed on an upper portion of the piston to support an upper portion of the spring, a frictional member disposed around the piston, and a piston rod coupled to the piston and supported on a floor.